SPECIMEN OF ENGRAVING BY THE "MOSS-TYPE" PROCESS.

FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

AFTER many years of constant experiment, John C. Moss, ably assisted by his son Robert B. Moss, has invented and perfected a process for producing engraved plates direct from photographs, which without doubt is destined to be the process of the future. It is theoretically and practically correct in all its principles and approaches more nearly to what may be termed an ideal process of engraving—and that in a more direct and positive manner—than any other method now known for the production of relief printing plates. Years ago, Mr. Moss conceived the necessity for such a process and determined to pursue his experiments until it would be possible to make engravings with the aid of photography directly from nature. The obstacles, many and great, have been fought away one by one and the result has been secured.

To distinguish this method from the other processes of Photo-Engraving invented by Mr. Moss, we designate it the "Moss-Type."

By this "Moss-Type" method it is possible to reproduce photographs, wash, distemper, stump-crayon, and pencil drawings, as well as mezzo-tint engravings with photographic accuracy. All that is requisite to a good result is to have the drawing or photograph prepared so as to be in every respect equal to the desired engraving, and not to show defects in itself which are not desired in the plate. It should be entirely free from unnecessary marks or creases in the paper, which should be perfectly smooth. The use of an eraser during the making of the drawing should be avoided if possible, so as to leave the surface of the paper in its natural state without "wooliness." Rough egg-shell or water color paper should not be used unless it is desired to represent the grain of the paper in the picture.

Drawings, Photographs, and other copy, may be larger, but for the best results, should not be smaller than the proposed engraving. They need not be reversed, but if made so, we should be notified if a change is desired.

Artists who have prepared drawings to be photographed on wood will understand what is required, although a greater amount of care should be observed in finishing the drawing for the process, as it produces automatically a perfect fac-simile. Drawings or photographs with vignetted edges are not so easily reproduced as those having decided edges or border lines, but in the case of vignette portraits we can obviate the difficulty if allowed to surround the portrait with an oval or other background.

Photographs in every case should be as nearly perfect as possible, In portrait work, especially, care should be taken to have the photograph show as much of the body as will be required in the engraving, and as the process will produce a tint corresponding to the photograph behind and above the body and head, the background should be clear and as nearly perfect as possible.

The "Moss-Type" process is owned and operated solely by this company.

We would be pleased to estimate upon receipt of copy, with particulars as to size, etc. Very respectfully,

These have been carefully examined and unanimously approved by the Publication Committee of the Society, representing the various religious denominations and temperance organizations of the country, which consists of the following members:

The following is the list, which can be procured through the regular Sunday-school trade, or by sending direct to the rooms of the Society:

At Lion's Mouth. 12mo, 410 pp. By Mary Dwinell Chellis..... 1 25

This is one of the best books ever issued, written in a simple yet thrilling and interesting style. It speaks boldly for the entire suppression of the liquor-traffic, depicting vividly the misery and wrongs resulting from it. The Christian tone is most excellent, showing the necessity of God's grace in the heart to overcome temptation and the power of appetite, and the influence which one zealous Christian can exert upon his companions and the community.

Adopted. 18mo, 236 pp. By Mrs. E. J. Richmond, author of "The McAllisters," 60

This book is written in an easy, pleasant style, seems to be true to nature, true to itself, and withal is full of the Gospel and Temperance.

Alice Grant; or, Faith and Temperance. 12mo, 352 pp. By Mrs. E. J. Richmond. 1 25

The religious tone of this volume is most excellent, as well as the temperance lessons it conveys. The story relates more especially to woman's work in this great reform, showing that faith in God is essential to success in any great work, and that God's grace in the heart can keep even the weakest from falling.

All for Money. 12mo, 340 pp. By Mary Dwinell Chellis..... 1 25

One of the best books ever written; its style vigorous and impressive, showing the deceptions practised in the liquor business—the unhappiness and ruin it produces—and that many will engage in it simply because its profits are large and wealth gained easily. It warns the reader against engaging in anything that takes away peace of conscience, bartering soul and body "all for money."

Amid the Shadows. 12mo, 412 pp. By Mrs. M. F. Martin..... 1 25

It is founded upon the facts of real life, and strikingly illustrates the utter wretchedness which intemperance begets alike among the poor and the wealthy, and also the power of the Gospel of Christ to reclaim and save. It embodies also a powerful plea for early and entire consecration to the religious life.

Andrew Douglass. 18mo, 232 pp.... 75

A new temperance story for Sunday-schools, written in a lively, energetic, and popular style, adapted to the Sabbath-school and the family circle.

Aunt Dinah's Pledge. 12mo, 318 pp. By Mary Dwinell Chellis..... 1 25

Aunt Dinah was an eminent Christian woman. Her pledge included swearing and smoking, as well as drinking. It saved her boys, who lived useful lives and died happy; and by quiet, yet loving and persistent work, names of many others were added who seemed almost beyond hope of salvation.

Bird-Angel, The. 12mo, large size, 147 pp. By Miss M. A. Paull..... 75

It is a book of much interest, well written, and will be well liked by young people, for whom it was written. It shows the importance of right training in early youth, and the value of temperance teachings in Bands of Hope, which often influence for good a whole lifetime.

Barford Mills. 12mo, 246 pp. By Miss M. E. Winslow..... 1 00

A narrative of facts simply told and full of interest, dealing with a settlement of Swedes in Mill Village, prosperous and thrifty until the opening of a liquor-saloon in their midst, which was finally banished in answer to the prayers of a few faithful ones.

Best Fellow in the World, The. 12mo, 352 pp. By Mrs. J. McNair Wright. 1 25

"The Best Fellow," whose course is here portrayed, is one of a very large class who are led astray and ruined simply because they are such "good fellows." To all such the volume speaks in thrilling tones of warning.

Bread and Beer. 12mo, 381 pp. By Mary Dwinell Chellis. Paper, 50c.; cloth.. 1 25

It is a story of absorbing interest, which portrays in a striking light the unhappy consequences of beer-drinking in impoverishing and ruining the home; strongly enforces the wisdom and duty of total abstinence; teaches important lessons of economy and industry; and effectively illustrates the blessed mission of Christian sympathy and love.

Brewer's Fortune, The. 12mo, 425 pp. By Mary Dwinell Chellis..... 1 50

This is one of the best volumes ever written by this popular author, and shows that wealth cannot compensate for evil-doing, and that the sins of the fathers are often visited upon the children.

Brewery at Taylorville, The. 12mo, 445 pp. By Mary Dwinell Chellis..... 1 50

This book shows how much evil was wrought by the establishment of a brewery in a hitherto prosperous town, and how it brought ruin and disgrace upon those who indulged in what are called the lighter drinks. It is one of the strongest books in favor of total abstinence from everything that can intoxicate.

Broken Rock, The. 18mo, 139 pp. By Kruna, author of "Lift a Little," etc. 50

It beautifully illustrates the silent and holy influence of a meek and lowly spirit upon the heartless rumseller until the rocky heart was broken.

Brook, The, and The Tide Turning. 12mo, 220 pp..... 1 00

These are two stories in one volume. The first, "The Brook," by Sarah K. Hunt, is charming in its simplicity, its tender pathos moving one to tears. "The Tide Turning," by Miss L. Bates, is full of the Gospel, showing the wonderful power of God's grace in the heart.

Caught and Fettered. 12mo, 267 pp. By Mrs. J. P. Ballard..... 1 00

This volume contains over seventy-one different stories, written by the children's favorite author, who is well known as one of the best temperance writers in the country. It is illustrated by eleven choice wood-engravings.

Coals of Fire. 12mo, 252 pp. By M. Alice Sweet..... 1 00

This is a story showing the lasting evil which use of intoxicating drinks brings into a family, and how the children who suffer by it rise above the temptation and literally pour coals of fire upon the heads of those who bring the curse upon them.

Come Home, Mother. 18mo, 143 pp. By Nelsie Brook..... 50

A most effective and interesting book, describing the downward course of the mother, and giving an account of the sad scenes but effectual endeavors of the little one in bringing her mother back to friends and leading her to God. It should be read by everybody.

Competitive Workmen. 12mo, 272 pp. By Faye Huntington..... 1 00

It shows what two zealous workers did for the people of a country village, winning them over to the cause of Christ, to temperance and education.

Congressman Stanley's Fate. 12mo, 403 pp. By Harriet A. Harp..... 1 25

It shows, in the life of Congressman Stanley, that moderate drinking is but a stepping-stone to drunkenness. Having inherited a liking for alcoholic drinks, his only safety lay in his abstaining entirely from their use. When first overcome, being warned and ashamed, he decided to abstain. When elected to Congress, however, he found the allurements and claims of society too strong for his weak nature, and, admired and flattered by all, he easily fell a victim to the pernicious convivial wine-cup.

Consecrated. 12mo, 434 pp. By Ernest Gilmore..... 1 50

It is pure in tone, full of interest, and is just the kind of a book that all young girls should read. It shows the beauties and happiness of a life consecrated to Christ and His service, and that a little self-denial can bring blessings to many homes darkened by poverty and cursed by drink.

Curse and the Cup, The. 18mo, 96 pp. By Mrs. J. McNair Wright..... 40

It is founded upon well-authenticated facts. The danger of tampering with strong drink, even for medicinal use, is strikingly shown, as is the guilt of the State in licensing temptation. Its lesson for total abstinence is most impressive.

Curse of Mill Valley, The. 12mo, 331 pp. By Mrs. S. M. Hartough..... 1 25

This is one of the strongest temperance stories ever written, showing how a quiet, lovely mill village, the inhabitants of which were temperate, industrious, and frugal, was changed for the worse by the opening of a bar-room in the village hotel and of a low groggery.

Dave Marquand. 12mo, large size, 357 pp. By Annette L. Noble..... 1 25

Written in a happy, sprightly style, for which the author is noted, it gives an excellent moral and Christian tone to its teachings. The characters are varied and well selected. It adds another to the really valuable temperance books of our catalogue for Sunday-school libraries.

Day with a Demon, A. 18mo, 96 pp. By Mrs. J. McNair Wright..... 40

It illustrates very forcibly the incidents of a single day of intelligent observation and inquiry, the danger involved in moderate drinking, and the degradation and sorrow which intemperance begets.

Dragon and the Tea-Kettle, The. 12mo, 288 pp. By Mrs. J. McNair Wright.. 1 00

The title of the book is the name of a cheap coffee-house in England which the proprietor established directly opposite a gorgeous gin-palace, that she might better fight the drink which had done her harm. It drew away from the saloon many a customer, and did a steady, quiet work in reclaiming those who had fallen through strong drink.

This is a well-written and deeply interesting narrative, in which are clearly shown the suffering and sorrow that too often follow, and the dangers that attend, boys and young men at school and at college.

Effie Raymond's Life-Work, Going with the Stream, and other Stories. 12mo, 270 pp. By Jeannie Bell..... 1 00

While it teaches important temperance lessons, showing that drunkenness arises from moderate drinking, it also teaches others equally important in a right life. Its religious tone is most excellent.

Emerald Spray, The. 18mo, 85 pp. By Mrs. J. McNair Wright..... 40

In this story the sad experience of an interesting family despoiled and brought to the verge of ruin by drink, and who afterward, through the kind offices of a "Good Samaritan," and the saving power of the grace of God, were rescued, is given.

The moral of the story shows those who sneer at a child's pledge, comparing its strength to a glass cable, that it is in many cases strong enough to brave the storms and temptations of a whole life-time.

Golden Threads. 12mo, 265 pp. By Ernest Gilmore..... 1 00

It portrays the life of a beautiful, well-ordered Christian family contrasted with another of a worldly, selfish type, and tells most attractively the story of the blessed results of practical Christian benevolence in rescuing, as brands from the burning, victims of intemperance, and in helping them upwards to useful, noble lives.

It is intended more especially for boys, but will be found interesting to any one, whether young or old. A sea-story, filled with thrilling adventures on the deep, and intensely interesting scenes on land in the midst of a quaint old sea-coast town, proving effectually that alcoholic drinks are not needed on shipboard or on land, and should be absolutely banished. The brave Christian character of Captain Adams and the heroism of his daughter Bess, together with the pure religious tone pervading every page, make this one of the most interesting books ever written.

Lionel Franklin's Victory. 12mo, 358 pp. An English Prize Tale by E. Van Sommer..... 1 25

It opens with an account of a little waif whose home-life is blighted by the dissipation of his father. Deprived by death of a Christian mother, also of an older, loving sister, he becomes an instrument in the hands of God of leading not only his sinful father but many desolate children like himself to a life of total abstinence. His influence reaches, by strange coincidences, which the gifted author skilfully weaves into the impressive story, beyond the haunts of the poor to the homes of the rich, where also the drink demon causes great suffering. One More Chance. 12mo, 598 pp. By Mrs. S. M. I. Henry. Paper cover, 50 cents; cloth..... 1 50

It treats of the principle of heredity—the old stone distillery and the little meeting-house of one hundred years ago sending their antagonistic influences down the generations in the same veins, bringing about that strange conflict of the spirit and the flesh, of purity and impurity, that is at the bottom of so much crime and insanity in this day. It shows, in the character of Maggie Dwight, that strong drink will do for a girl, in spite of physical beauty and many delicate instincts, just what it would do to a man.

The story shows how time and his surroundings developed latent powers and opened promises of strong and efficient manhood, and also shows how he is defeated at every point by the love of his mother's wine, until sorrow, for which this life can find no room for any compensation, comes to the old homestead.

Solomon encouraged I. CHRONICLES, XXVIII. to build the temple.

21 Of the half tribe of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo the son of Zechariah: of Benjamin, Jaasiel the son of Abner:
22 Of Dan, Azareel the son of Jeroham. These were the princes of the tribes of Israel.
23 ¶ But David took not the number of them from twenty years old and under: because the LORD had said he would increase Israel like to the stars of the heavens.
24 Joab the son of Zeruiah began to number, but he finished not, because there fell wrath for it against Israel; neither was the number put in the account of the chronicles of king David.
25 ¶ And over the king's treasures was Azmaveth the son of Adiel: and over the of the covenant of the LORD, and for the footstool of our God, and had made ready for the building:
3 But God said unto me, Thou shalt not build an house for my name, because thou hast been a man of war, and hast shed blood.
4 Howbeit the LORD God of Israel chose me before all the house of my father to be king over Israel for ever: for he hath chosen Judah to be the ruler; and of the house of Judah, the house of my father; and among the sons of my father he liked me to make me king over all Israel:
5 And of all my sons, (for the LORD hath given me many sons,) he hath chosen Solomon my son to sit upon the

The land assigned to NUMBERS, XXXII. the Reubenites and Gadites.

12 Save Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite, and Joshua the son of Nun: for they have wholly followed the LORD.
13 And the LORD's anger was kindled against Israel, and he made them wander in the wilderness forty years, until all the generation, that had done evil in the sight of the LORD, was consumed.
14 And, behold, ye are risen up in your fathers' stead, an increase of sinful men, armed, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan.
31 And the children of Gad and the children of Reuben answered, saying, As the LORD hath said unto thy servants, so will we do.
32 We will pass over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, that the possession of our inheritance on this side Jordan may be our's.

God's mercies ISAIAH, XLI. to the church.

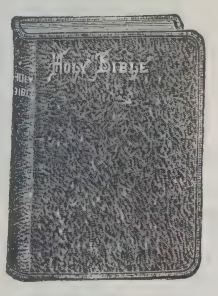
speakest, O Israel, My way is hid from the LORD, and my judgment is passed over from my God?

28 ¶ Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the LORD, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding.

29 He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength.

30 Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall:

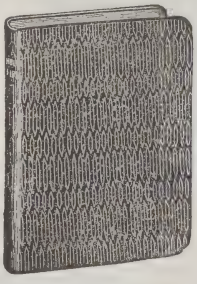


31 But they that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be

9 Thou whom I have taken from the ends of the earth, and called thee from the chief men thereof, and said unto thee, Thou art my servant; I have chosen thee, and not cast thee away.

10 ¶ Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.

11 Behold, all they that were incensed against thee shall be ashamed and confounded: they shall be as nothing; and they that strive with thee shall perish.



12 Thou shalt seek them, and shalt not find them, even them

Idols are not ISAIAH, XLVI, XLVII. comparable to God.

25 In the Lord shall all the seed of Israel be justified, and shall glory.

CHAPTER XLVI.

1 The idols of Babylon could not save themselves. 3 God saveth his people to the end. 5 Idols are not comparable to God for power, 12 or present salvation.

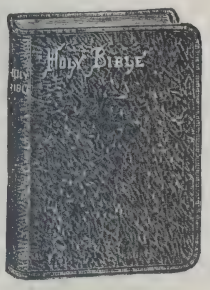
BEL boweth down, Nebo stoopeth, their idols were upon the beasts, and upon the cattle: your carriages were heavy loaden; they are a burden to the weary beast.

2 They stoop, they bow down together; they could not deliver the burden, but themselves are gone into captivity.

3 ¶ Hearken unto me, O house of Jacob, and all the remnant of the house of Israel, which are



10 Declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure:

11 Calling a ravenous bird from the east, the man that executeth my counsel from a far country: yea, I have spoken it, I will also bring it to pass; I have purposed it, I will also do it.

12 ¶ Hearken unto me, ye stouthearted, that are far from righteousness:

13 I bring near my righteousness; it shall not be far off, and my salvation shall not tarry: and I will place salvation in Zion for Israel my glory.

God threateneth Babylon. ISAIAH, XIV. The restoration of Israel.

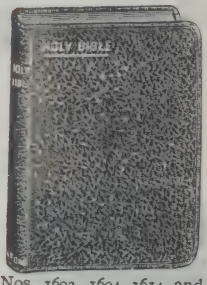
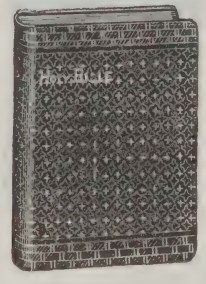
7 Therefore shall all hands be faint, and every man's heart shall melt:



8 And they shall be afraid: pangs and sorrows shall take hold of them; they shall be in pain as a woman that travaileth: they shall be amazed one at another; their faces shall be as flames.

doms, the beauty of the Chaldees' excellency, shall be as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah.



20 It shall never be inhabited, neither shall it be dwelt in from generation to generation: neither shall the Arabian pitch tent there; neither shall the shepherds make their fold there.

8 And Judah said unto Israel his father, Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go; that we may live, and not die, both we, and thou, and also our little ones.

9 I will be surety for him; of my hand shalt thou require him: [e]if I bring him not unto thee, and set him before thee, then let me bear the blame for ever:

10 For except we had lingered, surely now we had returned [3]this second time.

11 And their father Israel said unto them, If it must be so now, do this; take of the best fruits in the land in your vessels, and [d]carry down the man a present, a little [e]balm, and a little honey, spices, and myrrh, nuts, and almonds:

12 And take double money in your hand; and the money that was brought again in the mouth of your sacks, carry it again in your hand; peradventure it was an oversight:

13 Take also your brother, and arise, go again unto the man:

23 And he said, Peace be to you, fear not: your God, and the God of your father, hath given you treasure in your sacks: 2I had your money. And he brought Simeon out unto them.

24 And the man brought the men into Joseph's house, and [f]gave them water, and they washed their feet; and he gave their asses provender.

25 And they made ready the present against Joseph came at noon: for they heard that they should eat bread there.

26 ¶ And when Joseph came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand into the house, and [m]bowed themselves to him to the earth.

27 And he asked them of their [3]welfare, and said, [4]Is your father well, the old man [n]of whom ye spake? Is he yet alive?

28 And they answered, Thy servant our father is in good health, he is yet alive. [o]And they bowed down their heads, and made obeisance.

arose another generation after them, which [o] knew not the LORD, nor yet the works which he had done for Israel.

11 ¶ And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and served Baalim:

12 And they [p] forsook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed [q] other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and [r] bowed themselves unto them, and provoked the LORD to anger.

13 And they forsook the LORD, [s] and served Baal and Ashtaroth.

14 ¶ [t] And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he [u] delivered them into the hands of spoilers that spoiled them, and [x] he sold them into the hands of their enemies round about, so that they [y] could not any longer stand before their enemies.

15 Whithersoever they went out, the hand of the LORD was against them for evil, as the LORD had said, and [z] as the LORD had sworn unto them: and they were greatly distressed.

Judgments upon the land. ISAIAH, XXV. The prophet praiseth God.

Before CHRIST cir. 712.

3 The land shall be utterly emptied, and utterly spoiled: for the LORD hath spoken this word.

4 The earth mourneth and fadeth away, the world languisheth and fadeth away, [2] the haughty people of the earth do languish.

5 [c] The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants thereof; because they have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance, broken the everlasting covenant.

6 Therefore hath [d] the curse devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate: therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

7 [e] The new wine mourneth, the vine languisheth, all the merryhearted do sigh.

8 The mirth [f] of tabrets ceaseth, the noise of them that rejoice endeth, the joy of the harp ceaseth.

9 They shall not drink wine with a song; strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it.

10 The city of confusion is broken transgression thereof shall be heavy upon it; and it shall fall, and not rise again.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the LORD shall [2] punish the host of the high ones that are on high, [p] and the kings of the earth upon the earth.

22 And they shall be gathered together, [3] as prisoners are gathered in the [4] pit, and shall be shut up in the prison, and after many days shall they be [5] visited.

23 Then the [q] moon shall be confounded, and the sun ashamed, when the LORD of hosts shall [r] reign in [s] mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and [6] before his ancients gloriously.

CHAPTER XXV.

The promulgation ISAIAH, XL. of the gospel.

Before CHRIST cir. 712.

Hezekiah: for he had heard that he had been sick, and was recovered.

2 [b] And Hezekiah was glad of them, and shewed them the house of his [2] precious things, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the house of his [3,4] armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah shewed them not.

3 ¶ Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far country unto me, even from Babylon.

4 Then said he, What have they seen in thine house? And Hezekiah answered, All that is in mine house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shewed them.

8 The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but [h] the word of our God shall stand for ever.

9 ¶ [2] O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain; [3] O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God!

10 Behold, the Lord GOD will come [4] with strong hand, and [i] his arm shall rule for him: behold, [k] his reward is with him, and [5] his work before him.

11 He shall [l] feed his flock like a shepherd: he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those [6] that are with young.

RESH.

153 [a] Consider mine affliction, and deliver me: for I do not forget thy law.

154 [b] Plead my cause, and deliver me: [c] quicken me according to thy word.

155 [d] Salvation is far from the wicked: for they seek not thy statutes.

156 [2] Great are thy tender mercies, O LORD: [e] quicken me according to thy judgments.

157 Many are my persecutors and mine enemies; yet do I not [f] decline from thy testimonies.

158 I beheld the transgressors, and [g] was grieved; because they kept not thy word.

A Song of degrees.

REVELATION XVI.

8 And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

CHAPTER XVI.

2 The angels pour out their vials full of wrath. 6 The plagues that follow thereupon. 15 Christ cometh as a thief. Blessed are they that watch.

AND I heard a great voice out of the temple saying to the seven angels, Go your ways, and pour out the vials of the wrath of God upon the earth.

2 And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth; and there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image.

3 And the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea; and it became as the blood of a dead man: and every living soul died in the sea.

4 And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood.

5 And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus.

6 For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink: for they are worthy.

7 And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments.

8 And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: and they repented not to give him glory.

10 And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the

Christ's conference ST. JOHN, III. with Nicodemus.

19 Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.

20 Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

21 But he spake of the temple of his body.

22 When therefore he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this unto them; and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.

4 Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

5 Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.

7 Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again.

The destruction of ST. MATTHEW, XXIV. the temple foretold.

1 Christ foretelleth the destruction of the temple: 3 what and how great calamities shall be before it: 29 the signs of his coming to judgment. 36 And because that day and hour is unknown, 42 we ought to watch like good servants, expecting every moment our master's coming.

As he spake by the mouth of his holy Prophets, which have been since the world began;

That we should be saved from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us.

¶ Then shall be said the Apostles' Creed by the Minister and the People, standing. And any Churches may omit the words, He descended into hell, or may, instead of them, use the words, He went into the place of departed spirits, which are considered as into hell, The third day he rose from the dead; He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty; From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost; The holy Catholic Church; The Communion of Saints; The Forgiveness of sins; The Resurrection of the body; And the Life everlasting.

MORNING PRAYER. 7

We therefore pray thee, help thy servants, whom thou hast redeemed with thy precious blood.

Make them to be numbered with thy Saints, in glory everlasting.

O Lord, save thy people, and bless thine heritage.

Govern them, and lift them up for ever.

Day by day we magnify thee;

And we worship thy Name ever, world without end.

Vouchsafe, O Lord, to keep us this day without sin.

O Lord, have mercy upon us, have mercy upon us.

O Lord, let thy mercy be upon us, as our trust is in thee.

324 THE CHRISTIAN LIFE.

414 "My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed: I will sing and give praise." L.M.

From the lvii. Psalm.

O GOD, my heart is fix'd, 'tis bent,
Its thankful tribute to present;
And, with my heart, my voice I'll raise
To thee, my God, in songs of praise.

2 Awake, my glory; harp and lute,
No longer let your strings be mute:
And I, my tuneful part to take,
Will with the early dawn awake.

3 Thy praises, Lord, I will resound
To all the listening nations round:
Thy mercy highest heaven transcends,
Thy truth beyond the clouds extends.

EPIPHANY. 43

41 "The mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains." C.M.

O'ER mountain-tops the mount of God
In latter days shall rise,
Above the summits of the hills,
And draw the wondering eyes.

2 To this the joyful nations round,
All tribes and tongues, shall flow;
Up to the mount of God, they'll say,
And to his house we'll go.

PASSION WEEK. 69

4 Alas! I knew not what I did;
But now my tears are vain:
Where shall my trembling soul be hid?
For I the Lord have slain.

5 A second look he gave, which said,
"I freely all forgive;
This blood is for thy ransom paid,
I die that thou may'st live."

Desire to direct the close attention of all lovers of good novel reading to the works and authors contained in their new catalogue, just issued. A strict scrutiny is solicited, because the books enumerated in it are among the most popular now in existence. In supplying your wants and taste in the reading line, it is of the first importance that you should give special attention to what is popularly designated entertaining reading matter. No library is either attractive or complete without a collection of novels and romances. The experience of many years has demonstrated that light reading is essential to even the most studious men and women, furnishing the mind with healthful recreation; while to the young, and to those that have not cultivated a taste for solid works of science, it forms one of the best possible training schools, gradually establishing, in a pleasant manner, that habit of concentration of thought absolutely necessary to read understandingly the more ponderous works, which treat of political economy, the sciences, and of the arts.

We publish and sell at very low rates, full and varied editions of the works of all the famous American and Foreign Novelists, whose writings are very entertaining, specially adapted for all readers. The most of them are bound in strong cloth binding, and also in paper covers. Examination is asked for our editions of the writings of MRS. EMMA D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH, whose romances are always in demand; MRS. ANN S. STEPHENS, the well-known favorite; MRS. HENRY WOOD, the authoress of "East Lynne;" MRS. CAROLINE LEE HENTZ, whose stories of Southern life stand unparalleled in their simple truth and exquisite beauty; MRS. C. A. WARFIELD, another very popular Southern writer; MISS ELIZA A. DUPUY, who has made a wonderful mark; MRS. F. H. BURNETT, the authoress of "Theo;" the charming and pathetic French and Russian romances of HENRY GREVILLE; the wonderful and famous fictions of GUSTAVE FLAUBERT; the brilliant and artistic works of OCTAVE FEUILLET; the highly finished and powerful stories of ERNEST DAUDET; the popular and pleasing productions of PROSPER MERIMEE; the beautiful and touching love tales of the celebrated GEORGE SAND; the clever and intensely interesting writings of JULES SANDEAU; the exciting and ingenious novels of ADOLPHE BELOT; the picturesque and enchaining works of MADAME ANGELE DUSSAUD; the exquisitely pathetic romances of the PRINCESS ALTIERI; the strong and graphic productions of ANDRE THEURIET; the wild frontier sketches of GUSTAVE AIMARD; the classic and refined works of MADAME DE STAEL; the absorbing and vivid fictions of ALEXANDER DUMAS, Pere; the natural and forcible novels of ALEXANDER DUMAS, Fils; the startling and mysterious romances of EUGENE SUE; the trenchant and unique narratives of VICTOR HUGO; the realistic novels of EMILE ZOLA, which have had a sale in this country unparalleled in the history of recent book-making; of great interest is SIR WALTER SCOTT, whose "Waverley" novels still maintain a strong hold on the people. CHARLES DICKENS' complete writings we furnish in every variety of style. We publish also the weird stories of GEORGE LIPPARD; the martial novels of CHARLES LEVER; the comical nautical tales of CAPTAIN MARRYAT; EMERSON BENNETT'S Indian stories; HENRY COCKTON'S laughable narratives; T. S. ARTHUR'S temperance tales and household stories; the wonderful and entertaining novels of EUGENE SUE and W. H. AINSWORTH; the quiet domestic novels of FREDRIKA BREMER and ELLEN PICKERING; the masterly novels of WILKIE COLLINS; FRANK FAIRLEGH'S quaint stories, and SAMUEL WARREN'S elaborate romances; the works of MRS. Frank Forester's Sporting Scenes and Characters.

BY

HENRY WILLIAM HERBERT.

(FRANK FORESTER.)

AUTHOR OF "THE ROMAN TRAITOR; OR, THE DAYS OF CICERO, CATO, AND CATALINE."

Containing a variety of incidents, on the road, in the field and the forest, with the precepts, practice, and accidents of woodcraft, and concerning all the Field Sports of America, with a full and complete sketch of English Fox-Hunting, including "The Warwick Woodlands," "My Shooting Box," "The Deer Stalkers," and "The Quorndon Hounds." To which is added an introductory chapter containing a sketch of the author's life, with his portrait and autograph, a life-like picture in his shooting costume, and seventeen other illustrative engravings from original designs by Felix O. C. Darley. The whole being complete in two large duodecimo volumes, printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in morocco cloth, with bevelled boards, black and gold, price Four Dollars.

Henry William Herbert, the author of "FRANK FORESTER'S SPORTING SCENES AND CHARACTERS," was born in London, April 7, 1807. He received all the advantages of a thorough classical education, being taught by private tutors until he was twelve years old, after which he was transferred to Eton, and lastly to Caius College, Cambridge. His passion for field sports, inherited from his ancestors, was exhibited while yet at school. His father, an enthusiastic sportsman, taught "the young idea how to shoot." Like the young Persian of olden time, the youth was early taught "to shoot, to ride a horse, and speak the truth"—three essential elements in the education of the British gentry. Herbert graduated at Cambridge in the class of 1829–30, with high honors, and the reputation of high scholarship, particularly in the classics. Sir Walter Scott, then in the zenith of his fame both as a poet and novelist, was his literary idol; and the high spirit of chivalry, of ambition and emulation inherent in the young student, kindled anew under the magic influence of that matchless "Wizard of the North." Soon after leaving Cambridge, young Herbert visited Paris, where for a time he enjoyed the scenes, customs, and mode of life peculiar to the gayest metropolis of the world. After a tour of several months on the continent, he determined, for some unknown reason, to leave home, kindred, and station, for another clime. Arriving in the United States in December, 1831, with "no other purpose than to see America in all its length and breadth," to use his own language, he sojourned for a time in New York city, and finally visited Orange county, N. Y., where for the first time he beheld "Tom Draw," and in company with that keen sportsman shot the quail and woodcock in the Warwick Woodlands. This fair region and the genial host have been since rendered famous in both hemispheres by Herbert's pen. From the quiet vale of Warwick the sportsman and tourist journeyed northward into Canada, and while there he became acquainted with several prominent northern sportsmen, and after a pleasant sojourn in the Dominion he returned to New York city, and turned his attention to securing some employment congenial to his taste. He soon became one of the notables amid the throngs that passed "down Broadway," attracting attention not only as one of the popular writers of the day, but as an eccentric genius, usually attired in sporting costume, and bearing a luxuriant moustache, an appendage usually tabooed in those days, and massive King Charles spurs in his cavalier boots. Setting aside outward adornment, he was a "man of mark," graceful in bearing, athletic in form, and of very attractive features, with eyes through which glowed the true fire of genius. In any assemblage he would have attracted more than passing notice. Among the literati of old Gotham he became known and admired as an able writer, a conversationalist of rare powers, and a gentleman well versed in belles lettres. As a reviewer upon the staff of the old "Courier and Enquirer"—a position which he held for several years—he exhibited literary discernment of a high order. At "The Cedars," his country home, Herbert was the wonder and admiration of the people. In the field, with dog and gun, or along the trout streams, with rod in hand, he was held a model, the same as in his novels pertaining to those pastimes. It is seldom that gentlemen of surpassing talent, combined with large practical experience in the sports of field and flood, have adorned the sporting literature of the new world with the scintillations of their genius. In England, where the chase and out-door recreation have been practiced by the gentry for centuries, it is far different. Frank Forester's writings form an important feature of American literature—derived not only from an hereditary zeal and taste for field sports, but an ability in literary walks, and opportunities for the practice of the sports he loved, both here and in Europe, which combined to make him a model sporting author.

Copies of any or all will be sent to any place, post-paid, on receipt of remittances.

T. B. Peterson & Brothers, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, have just issued an entire new, complete, and uniform edition of all the celebrated works written by Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth, the popular American Female Authoress. It would be altogether a work of supererogation to describe the characteristics of Mrs. Southworth's style as a novelist, and it would be profitless to analyze the causes of her popularity. Her position is certainly at the head of all sensational writers, and there is no American author now living whose writings secure such immediate and general circulation. In all her works, the highest and purest sentiments are brought out into tales of intense interest, while the darker shades of life are used only as lessons of instruction, or to offset the more winning characters she creates. There is also in her works great originality of character, fine descriptive powers, strange and startling incidents, stirring adventures, scenes of pathos, and pages that quicken the pulses and thrill the heart with interest and almost pain; as well as great ingenuity in the construction of her plots, and in the pure moral tone which characterizes all her writings. Her novels are all full of the strongest interest—exciting to the verge of sensationalism, yet contain nothing to offend even the most fastidious delicacy. The demand for all of Mrs. Southworth's works, at the libraries, continues, and their immense circulation shows that she is one of the most popular novelists of this century. This new edition is in duodecimo form, is printed on the finest of paper, is complete in forty-three volumes, and each volume is bound in morocco cloth, with a full gilt back, and is sold at $1.50 a volume, or $64.50 for a full and complete set, put up in a neat box. Every Family, and every Library in this Country, should have in it a set of this new and beautiful edition of the works of this talented American Authoress, Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth.

☞ Copies of any one work, or more, or a complete set of "Mrs. Southworth's Works," will be sent to any one, to any address, at once, free of freight or postage, on remitting $1.50 for each one wanted, to the Publishers, T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

By author of "Nana" and "L'Assommoir."

CHRISTINE, THE MODEL;

OR, STUDIES OF LOVE.

Being the Struggles of Nana's Artist Brother, Claude Lantier, in a new School of Art, wherein Bohemianism and Artist Life in Paris among the Beautiful Models in the Studios are graphically described and vividly and truthfully depicted.

BY ÉMILE ZOLA.

AUTHOR OF "NANA," "L'ASSOMMOIR," "CLAUDE'S CONFESSION," "HELENE," "POT-BOUILLE," "THERESE RAQUIN," "MYSTERIES OF MARSEILLES," "THE GIRL IN SCARLET," "ALBINE," "THE SHOP GIRLS OF PARIS," "MYSTERIES OF THE COURT OF LOUIS NAPOLEON," "MAGDALEN FERAT," "NANA'S BROTHER," "HER TWO HUSBANDS," "THE JOYS OF LIFE," "LA BELLE LISA," "IN THE WHIRLPOOL."

"Christine, the Model; or, Studies of Love," is the title of Emile Zola's new book, one of his very best productions and certainly his most daring venture in the field of naturalism. Absorbing interest marks every page and the reader is riveted to it, for it is a masterpiece in the highest sense of the word. Artist life in Paris is the theme and the characters are mainly Bohemian painters, journalists and literary men, together with the women who have joined their fortunes to theirs. Wholesale dissections and revelations of the most piquant nature are indulged in. Claude Lantier, son of Gervaise and Lantier of "L'Assommoir" and brother of the beautiful Nana, is the hero. He and Christine pervade the book, a thrilling picture of their ardent love and how it eventually grew cold being given. Claude is a wild enthusiast with an ill-balanced mind. He has decided ability as an artist, but his monomania for founding a new realistic school of painting and producing a masterwork prevents him from attaining success. Biting poverty is finally his lot, and Christine devotedly shares his misery, racked and tortured by intense and bitter jealousy of the women on his canvas, for whom he forsakes her and to whom he gives his passionate adoration. Under the name of Sandoz, Zola personally figures largely in the fascinating novel, and the statements made with reference to his life, literary aims and methods of labor are undoubtedly autobiographical. This lends additional interest to the narrative, for everybody is anxious to get a clear insight into the private career of the world-famous realistic novelist. Many of the other characters are also taken from life and brought on the stage of action with all their strange whims and eccentric peculiarities. "Christine, the Model," is undoubtedly one of the most startling novels of the age. It is full of spice, dash, vigor and originality, and so catchy that it is impossible to resist its spell.

Paper Cover, 75 Cents. Morocco Cloth, Gilt and Black, $1.25.

☞ *"Christine, the Model; or, Studies of Love," is issued in a large duodecimo volume, in uniform style with "Nana," "L'Assommoir," and all of Emile Zola's other works, which are published by T. B. ALEXANDER DUMAS' GREATEST WORK.

COUNT OF MONTE-CRISTO.

Petersons' New Illustrated Edition.—Complete and Unabridged.

BY ALEXANDER DUMAS.

AUTHOR OF "THE THREE GUARDSMEN," "BRAGELONNE, THE SON OF ATHOS," "THE CHEVALIER," "TWENTY YEARS AFTER," "THE IRON MASK," "THE QUEEN'S NECKLACE," "CAMILLE," "LOUISE LA VALLIERE," "SIX YEARS LATER," "THE COUNTESS OF CHARNY," "THE FORTY-FIVE GUARDSMEN," "THE IRON HAND," "THE CONSCRIPT," "ADVENTURES OF A MARQUIS," "MEMOIRS OF A PHYSICIAN," "ANDREE DE TAVERNEY," "THE CORSICAN BROTHERS."

"The Count of Monte-Cristo," by Alexander Dumas, is in the highest sense of the term a masterpiece. No novel has ever approached it or can compare with it for absorbing interest, weird fascination and thrilling intensity. From the arrival of the ship "Pharaon" in the first chapter to the very last line of the wonderful romance there is a subtle charm, a spell of enchantment, that no one can resist. Edmond Dantes enchains attention from the moment of his first appearance, so naturally, vividly and powerfully is he depicted. The interrupted marriage-feast, the sailor-lover's long years of terrible captivity in the gloomy and tomblike Chateau d' If, his marvellous experience with the Abbé Faria and his daring escape, all are described with rare felicity and strength. The succeeding portions of the great romance seem like a bewildering dream, but a dream that has method in it and is rational to the last degree. The discovery of the countless treasures hidden by Cardinal Spada, the transformation of Dantes to the Count of Monte-Cristo, and the latter's unswerving pursuit and relentless punishment of his enemies form a combination of the strongest and most startling elements that can be conceived. The remarkable romance covers an exceedingly wide field, and may properly be styled a whirl of intense excitement. The men represent all grades of intelligence, goodness and iniquity, while the women are equally varied. They figure in myriads of scenes wrought up to the highest point of dramatic effect, and over everything the incalculable wealth of the Count of Monte-Cristo and the impenetrable mysteries surrounding him fling a lurid glare that heightens the strange beauty of the picture. "The Count of Monte-Cristo" is a novel that everybody must read, and no one who once begins it can be persuaded to lay it aside until the last word is reached. The popular "Monte-Cristo Series" consists of "The Count of Monte-Cristo," "The Wife of Monte-Cristo," "The Son of Monte-Cristo," "The Countess of Monte-Cristo," and "Edmond Dantes," the Sequel to "The Count of Monte-Cristo," all published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers. Everybody should read these books.

HANS BREITMANN'S BALLADS.

NEW, ENLARGED, AND COMPLETE EDITION.

BY CHARLES G. LELAND.

AUTHOR OF "MEISTER KARL'S SKETCH BOOK."

WITH PORTRAIT and AUTOGRAPH OF THE AUTHOR.

Messrs. T. B. Peterson & Brothers, of Philadelphia, have just published a new, complete and elegant edition of "Hans Breitmann's Ballads," with a Portrait of "Hans Breitmann," as well as a Portrait and Autograph of the Author, Charles G. Leland, Esq. It comprises all the Ballads ever written by Hans Breitmann, fifty-six in all, containing his entire five books, viz.: "Hans Breitmann's Party; with Other Ballads," "Hans Breitmann About Town; and Other Ballads," "Hans Breitmann in Church; and Other Ballads," "Hans Breitmann as an Uhlan; with Other New Ballads," and "Hans Breitmann in Europe; with Other New Ballads," being the "First," "Second," "Third," "Fourth," and "Fifth Series" of the famous "Breitmann Ballads," with a Complete Glossary to the whole work. As a writer of humorous dialect verses, Hans Breitmann stands alone, and all will recall the delight they experienced when Mr. Leland's humorous Ballad of "Hans Breitmann's Party" first made its appearance; and now that all his Ballads are in one volume, it will be welcomed with renewed pleasure. The humor of Leland's volume is well expressed in the opening ballad:

"Hans Breitmann gife a barty—dey had biano-blayin;
I felled in lofe mit a Merican frau, her name was Madilda Yane.
She hat haar as prown ash a pretzel, her eyes vas himmel-plue,
Und ven dey looket indo mine, dey shplit mine heart in two."

HANS BREITMANN.

The fertility of Leland's imagination was very great. Ballad after ballad with widely varied themes and changing character were thrown off with easy rapidity, and from none were there wanting that relish for the comic, that rough but kindly bonhommie which first floated them into favor. It is only on looking through a volume like this that one gets an idea of how much work and what good work the author has done. Mr. Leland is a master of dialect, a specialist, so to speak, and the jargon in which he writes has a positive value as a philological study. As a result, Hans Breitmann has become a classical figure, and his Ballads are well worthy, for their wit, wisdom and pathos, of the elegant and enduring form in which they are now presented to the public, and they will continue to be a source of pleasure to thousands long after the incidents, upon which some of them were founded, have been forgotten. The volume is complete in one large octavo volume, printed on the finest tinted plate paper, and bound in morocco cloth, with beveled boards, with full gilt edges, side, and back. Price Four Dollars.

☞ "Hans Breitmann's Ballads," complete and enlarged edition, will be found for sale by all first-class Booksellers everywhere, and by the Publishers, or copies of it will be sent to any one, post-paid, on remitting the price of it to the Publishers,

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, Philadelphia, Pa.

A NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION IS NOW READY OF

BEAUTIFUL SNOW

WITH OTHER POEMS NEVER BEFORE PUBLISHED.

BY J. W. WATSON.

With Original Illustrations, by E. L. Henry.

This New and Enlarged edition of "Beautiful Snow; with Other Poems," contains beside all the Poems that were in the original editions of "Beautiful Snow," and in "The Outcast and Other Poems," many New and Original Poems by the author of "Beautiful Snow," which have never before been published, and are fully equal to the Poem of "Beautiful Snow" in every respect.

A New, Enlarged, and Illustrated edition of "Beautiful Snow; with Other Poems," from the pen of J. W. Watson, is just published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, at a price that places it within reach of everybody. It contains several very handsome engravings, and of the fifty-seven poems given many are original and entirely new, appearing for the first time in print in the present edition. In the appendix Mr. Watson writes a new and highly interesting history of "Beautiful Snow," giving full details of the manner in which he wrote it and relating the strange and romantic story of its many fraudulent claimants. "Beautiful Snow" is one of the finest poems in the English language, and will live forever. Its marked beauty, deep human feeling, touching episodes and rare vigor of style fully explain the secret of its hold upon readers of all ages and in every class of life. It is a masterpiece, and of itself would have sufficed to make Mr. Watson famous and place him in the foremost rank as a poet. But, fortunately, his other poems are in no wise inferior to it either in strength or the imaginative quality. "The Dying Soldier" is a noble poem. "To Liberty," written for the inauguration of the Bartholdi statue, is stirring, powerful and patriotic, displaying a wonderful wealth of language and a keen appreciation of the blessings of freedom. "The Outcast" is also a forcible and striking poem, replete with rugged beauty. "Ring Down the Drop—I Cannot Play" and "The Dead Actor" vividly illustrate pathetic incidents in theatrical life, and "The Old Musician" has a fascination that is peculiarly its own. Some of the poems are quaintly humorous, as, for instance, "The General's Story," "Farmer's Welcome," and "My Cook." "Each Tuscan Maid" is a romantic and pretty ballad. "The Kiss that we Never Received," "Call me Anything but Old" and "Summon Me Back" are also capital. As a whole, this new and complete volume of Mr. Watson's poems has a great deal to recommend it to those who read and relish real poetry—and who does not? There will be a very large demand for it, as it is one of the most popular books of the day.

One Vol., Octavo, Morocco Cloth, $2.00. Full Gilt, $3.00.

☞ "Beautiful Snow; with Other Poems never before published," is issued this day, and is for sale by the single copy, dozen or hundred, to Booksellers and Canvassers at low rates, or copies of it will be sent per mail to any place, postpaid, on remitting the price in a letter to the publishers,

MRS. BURNETT'S NOVELETTES.

COMPLETE EDITIONS, JUST PUBLISHED BY

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, PHILADELPHIA,

AND FOR SALE BY ALL BOOKSELLERS AND NEWS AGENTS.

Price 50 cents each in paper cover, or $1.00 each in cloth, black and gold.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett is one of the most charming among American writers. There is a crisp and breezy freshness about her delightful novelettes that is rarely found in contemporaneous fiction, and a close adherence to nature, as well, that renders them doubly delicious. Of all Mrs. Burnett's romances and shorter stories those which first attracted public attention to her wonderful gifts are still her best. She has done more mature work, but never anything half so pleasing and enjoyable. These masterpieces of Mrs. Burnett's genius are all love stories of the brightest, happiest and most entertaining description; lively, cheerful love stories in which the shadow cast is infinitesimally small compared with the stretch of sunlight; and the interest is always maintained at full head without apparent effort and without resorting to the conventional and hackneyed devices of most novelists, devices that the experienced reader sees through at once. No more sprightly novel than "Theo" could be desired, and a sweeter or more beautiful romance than "Kathleen" does not exist in print, while "Pretty Polly Pemberton" possesses besides its sprightliness a special interest peculiar to itself, and "Miss Crespigny" would do honor to the pen of any novelist, no matter how celebrated. "Lindsay's Luck," "A Quiet Life," "The Tide on the Moaning Bar" and "Jarl's Daughter" are all worthy members of the same collection of Mrs. Burnett's earlier, most original, best and freshest romances. Everybody should read these exceptionally bright, clever and fascinating novelettes, for they occupy a niche by themselves in the world's literature and are decidedly the most agreeable, charming and interesting books that can be found anywhere.

HELEN'S BABIES.

WITH

Some accounts of their ways innocent, crafty, angelic, impish, witching and repulsive. Also, a partial record of their actions during ten days of their existence.

BY JOHN HABBERTON.

With an Illustrated Cover, with Portraits of Budge and Toddie.

"Helen's Babies" is famous. It contains more merriment than any other book extant, and at the same time is wonderfully interesting. A masterpiece in every sense of the word, it awakens intense admiration while it produces hearty laughter. As a picture of child-life it is nature itself, and it could not well be otherwise, for John Habberton, its author, made his own children sit for the portraits of Budge and Toddie, the refreshingly droll little heroes. The tone of the charming volume is healthful and vigorous, while all the incidents are bright and telling. Budge and Toddie, "the best children in the world," are mischief incarnate. They are consigned to the care of their Uncle Harry while their parents spend a fortnight with a friend, and at once the fun begins. The boys demand stories, and, when their uncle favors them with a biblical narrative, they correct him and tell him he doesn't know anything about Jonah and Noah and the Ark. Toddie is fearfully persistent, and, when denied anything, has a way of bursting into such a storm of tears that his wish is instantly granted. He wants "to shee the wheels of his uncle's watch go wound," and has a terrible craving for candy, while he echoes all his brother's words, and is always getting into some difficulty or other. Budge is inquisitive and perplexing. He interprets Toddie's picturesque baby talk, and is ever ready for a frolic. The children cause their uncle no end of worriment. Budge has a goat and a carriage to which the animal is harnessed. In this vehicle he meets with frequent mishaps. The boys will besmear their garments with mud, and their adventurous dispositions occasionally lead them into danger. To amuse them and keep them in order, their uncle sings them camp-meeting hymns and impersonates in turn bears, lions, zebras, elephants, dogs and cats. Toddie has a favorite song, which he invariably demands when he gets hurt, and which exercises a peculiarly soothing influence upon him. But though veritable imps, the boys are charming little fellows, and it is utterly impossible not to love them. They are devout after their own peculiar fashion, and insist upon saying prayers, some of which are indescribably comical. Altogether, "Helen's Babies" is one of the most captivating stories in existence, the courtship of Uncle Harry and Miss Mayton lending it variety and romance. No one can fail to be delighted with it, whether married or single, old or young, and all who read it will certainly enjoy a series of hearty laughs. Budge and Toddie are capital creations and excellent types of American boyhood. They will remain in the memory forever, for "Helen's Babies" can never be forgotten.

EQUAL TO "HELEN'S BABIES."

THE ANNALS OF A BABY.

HOW IT WAS NAMED—BABY'S FIRST GIFTS—HOW IT WAS NURSED—THE BABY'S PARTY—THE BABY'S LIFE, ETC.

BY SARAH BRIDGES STEBBINS.

"The Annals of a Baby," by Sarah Bridges Stebbins, is one of the brightest and best books of the day. Poetic in the highest degree, it depicts in glowing tints a series of home scenes, in which, of course, the Baby is the central figure. These scenes, and the various characters taking part in them, are so natural and so felicitously drawn that the reader cannot resist the fascination they exert, and this fascination holds sway until the last. The Baby is a charming little atom, and the good it does simply by its presence is described in a manner that reaches at times the height of the pathetic. Then the Young Mother, with her kindness and thoughtfulness, the Young Father, the Young Aunties, the Grandfathers, the Grandmothers, the Poor Relation, the Crippled Sister, the Fat Nurse and Aunt Hannah at once photograph themselves on the mind and become, so to speak, living personages whom everybody can understand and appreciate, the Fat Nurse, with her quaint language and practical ideas, being a creation worthy of Dickens. Naming the Baby is a delightful incident, and the Baby's party is so original and novel that no one can fail to be pleased with it. The chapter aalled "The Sunset of Life" will bring tears to many an eye, and that devoted to Aunt Hannah will sink deeply into every mother's heart. But the humor of the book is as strong as its pathos, and the hearty laugh will follow the tear as page after page is read. A copy of "The Annals of a Baby", should find its way into every home in the land.

FATHER TOM AND THE POPE

OR,

A NIGHT AT THE VATICAN.

With Illustrative Engravings of the scenes that took place there, between the Pope and the Priest, Father Tom.

Read what S. J. Prime, Esq., the Editor of the New York Christian Observer, says of "Father Tom and the Pope," in that paper, editorially.

"FATHER TOM AND THE POPE.—There is a time to laugh. And we had it when we read this book, with the taking title of 'Father Tom and the Pope.' It is a broad satire on the faith and practice of Mother Rome: too broad perhaps for this country, where the Irish brogue, Irish humor, and Irish technical terms are not as readily caught as they are in the green isle for which the book was written.

"Father Tom goes to Rome; he is a Romish Priest from Ireland, and in Rome, his Holiness invites the celebrated champion of the Church to take 'pot luck wid him.' At the table the Pope offers him various kinds of wine, but Father Tom, more accustomed to something stronger and warmer, complains of the drink, and greatly to the disgust of the Pope produces a bottle of the 'rale stuff' from his coat pocket. His Holiness rebukes him for bringing his own liquor when coming to dine with the prince of princes, but catching a whiff of the whiskey across the table, asks for the bottle, brings it to his blessed nose, and exclaims, 'Holy Virgin! but it has the divine smell!'

"After this the Pope and Father Tom have a good time generally; the Priest produces another bottle from another pocket; calls for the housekeeper to bring the 'matarials' to brew a punch; she comes; a comely damsel; and then occurs a scene that introduces as keen a satire on one of the dogmas of Rome as was ever made, for the particulars of which we advise all persons to buy and read the book."

Price 50 Cents in paper cover, or $1.00 in Morocco cloth, black and gold.

☞ "Father Tom and the Pope," will be found for sale by all Booksellers, and on all Rail-Road Trains, or copies of it will be sent to any one, to any place, at once, post-paid, on remitting the price of the edition wished, in a letter, to the publishers,

WHICH?

OR,

BETWEEN TWO WOMEN.

BY ERNEST DAUDET.

"WHICH? OR, BETWEEN TWO WOMEN, is the latest and most powerful novel from the pen of the celebrated French novelist, Ernest Daudet. It is fully worthy of its famous author's great reputation, and ought to be an unusually popular book, if power, originality and hosts of wonderfully exciting scenes can make it so. It is, without doubt, one of the strongest and best love romances issued from the press for a long while and possesses every requisite for a phenomenal success. The action is brisk and spirited straight along, while the interest is of the most absorbing kind. The plot, which is without complication or mystery, hinges on the love of Dolores, a beautiful girl with gypsy blood in her veins, and Antoinette de Mirandol, a handsome heiress, for Philip de Chamondrin, a young nobleman, whose family has lost prestige and wealth. This rivalry gives rise to much womanly heroism and self-denial on the part of Dolores, who, in order to further what she considers the best interests of the man she loves, does not hesitate to attempt not only the sacrifice of her heart, but also of her life. The scene is laid in Paris and the country, and the events are described with rare vigor and completeness of detail. Many of the incidents are of the most thrilling and dramatic description, as, for instance, the taking and burning of the Château de Chamondrin, the arrest of Philip and Dolores, the struggle between Coursegol and Vauquelas, Dolores' attempt to save Antoinette in the Conciergerie prison, and Bridoul's rescue of Coursegol and Dolores. But too much cannot be said in praise of the entire book, which will certainly be read with pleasure and profit by everybody. The characters are well drawn, and speak and act like living people, forming a very natural and effective group of personages. The style of composition is clear and flowing, and there is not a dull line in the whole book. In short, "Which? or, Between Two Women," is a novel to be highly recommended.

CAMILLE.

(LA DAME AUX CAMÉLIAS.)

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS take pleasure in presenting to the public a literal and complete translation of the younger Dumas' widely celebrated romance, "Camille; or, The Fate of a Coquette" ("La Dame Aux Camélias.") This great novel will be particularly acceptable at this time in consequence of the visit to this country of Sarah Bernhardt, the renowned actress of the Paris Comédie Française, whose impersonation of the rôle of Camille, in the powerful drama taken from Dumas' masterpiece, is regarded as a new revelation of the character by the best theatrical critics of Paris and London. In the past, Matilda Heron and Mrs. F. W. Lander (Miss Jean M. Davenport) made the part famous, and later Mrs. D. P. Bowers gave quite a clever conception of it; but all these artistes were destined to be eclipsed by that fine Polish actress, Modjeska, who enacted the rôle of Camille with a degree of refinement, power and novelty of characterization as agreeable as impressive. The great French actress, Sarah Bernhardt, portrays the part much in the style of Modjeska, but surpasses her in many important particulars. In fact, her "Dame aux Camélias" is admitted to be a genuine creation of the highest order of merit. But, however great may be the impersonation of a character upon the stage, the audience cannot fully understand that character without acquiring some preliminary knowledge of it, and in no way can such knowledge be better obtained than by an attentive perusal of the romance upon which the play was founded, and all should read the younger Dumas' fascinating romance and go to the theatre thoroughly informed. The novel is a remarkably vivid picture of a special phase of Parisian life. It is natural, powerful and touching, and, at the same time, it conveys a moral lesson that can never be forgotten. The reader recognizes Camille's inherent good qualities despite her reckless life, and is irresistibly impelled to sympathize with the beautiful creature caught in a whirlpool from which there is no possible escape, and simulating light-heartedness while consumption is gnawing at her vitals. On the stage but a partial glimpse of this unfortunate creature can be given, but the novel contains her complete history, and with its aid many obscure points in the drama may be fully understood and explained. It must be borne in mind that Camille is no fancy sketch. In her, Dumas portrayed the likeness of the handsome and ill-fated Marie Duplessis, whose career was at one time the talk of Paris, and whose wonderful beauty attracted the gaze of princes. A copious memoir of Mlle. Duplessis by that noted French feuilletonist, Jules Janin, is prefixed to the novel, and will be found of marked interest, while full particulars in regard to the play and "La Traviata," the opera Verdi took from "Camille," are given in the translator's preface. This handsome edition at a popular price is gotten up in excellent style, and on the cover a capital portrait of Sarah Bernhardt is displayed, thus rendering it valuable as a souvenir of the distinguished actress' visit. But all other recommendations aside, "Camille" is so deeply interesting, and so close a study of certain aspects of human nature, that no one can afford to miss reading it, and it is one of the few novels destined to survive indefinitely its great popularity as long as suffering awakens sympathy, and error inspires pity and regret. Everybody should have a copy of the Sarah Bernhardt edition of this great romance, price 75 cents in paper cover, or $1.25 in cloth. We also have a duodecimo library edition, on heavier paper and bound in morocco cloth, black and gold, price $1.75.

Please read the following description of Munkacsy's Great Picture, "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE," which is pronounced by all to be the strongest and most notable picture ever brought to America, being a masterpiece, wonderful as a work of art, beyond the power of language to describe, worth a thousand sermons as a moral lesson, and which will become one of the most popular pictorial ornaments of the average American household.

The superb steel engraving, in line and stipple, of the world-renowned painting, "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE," by the famous Hungarian artist Munkacsy, just published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa., is in itself a work of art of the highest claims and fully worthy of the great original of which it is an exact copy and reproduction. With such rare skill and delicacy of touch has it been executed that even the color values of Munkacsy's masterpiece have been admirably preserved, while the high intent and purpose of the exalted subject have lost nothing in the transference to black and white. The large size of the superb engraving is such that the various figures are allowed ample scope for the display of the salient features of face and form, while the varied expressions of hate, fear, curiosity, compassion and reverence animating the countenances of those assembled are shown with a startling fidelity that beggars description. Munkacsy, while preserving a thoroughly reverential tone, treated Christ and those about him in a style of unflinching realism such as the world has not been accustomed to see in paintings of a religious cast, and this realism has been accurately maintained by the Messrs. Peterson in their picture, thus giving it an additional value in the eyes of both the general public and discerning art critics. As the original is instinct with life and inspiration in the highest sense, so is this reproduction, not a jot or tittle of Munkacsy's magnificent painting of "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE,"' having been toned down or abated.

The scene chosen for the picture is "The Judgment Hall" in the Palace of Pilate, and the hour "early in the morning." In the background, through the arches of the building, the dawn is seen breaking over the gray edifices of Jerusalem. The mob has brought in Christ for judgment, and upon his Benia, which represents for Judea the imperial throne, Pilate sits, clad in a white toga. His form is expressive of the might of Rome, broad, massive, knit together by the strength of iron, with the neck of a gladiator and the head of a cynical soldier who rules with force those whom he despises. Around the Governor's exalted seat the priests are gathered, and the high priest Caiaphas is in the act of accusing Christ and demanding his death. The proud and furious bigot is all alive with excitement. There is a majesty about his pose, the consciousness of power in his look and gesture, and something of dignity in the superb audacity with which he draws Pilate's attention to the execrations of the mob, who are crying out, "Crucify Him!" as expressive of the national will which the Governor is bound to respect, at the same time insinuating that to let this man go will be treason to Cæsar as well as a violation of the Jewish law, which demands the prisoner's death "for making himself the Son of God." Pilate is evidently yielding to the clamor, while his conscience, aided by his wife's message, just received, warning him not to condemn that righteous man, is protesting in tones which make him tremble. His head is bent in an attitude of deep thought and his gaze fixed on the open palm of his left hand, while his right hand is nervously clutching the sleeve of his toga. He seems perplexed, annoyed and reluctant, apparently little relishing the task before him.

Other leading figures in the picture are a proud Pharisee, who sits in self-satisfied content, awaiting the inevitable verdict; a rude, impudent fellow behind the Pharisee, bent forward and leering scornfully at the Messiah; a ruffianly straggler from the street, who, with the vehemence which ignorant hate inspires, is joining in that cruel cry of "Crucify Him!" as he stretches his brawny arms aloft; another wretch, who has raised himself above the shoulders of the crowd, and, with bare arm extended, points his finger at the Saviour as he adds his mite to the flood of insult and denunciation; a haughty scribe perched up against the wall on a bench beside Caiaphas and watching the proceedings with a scowl of supercilious contempt; a Roman soldier, who keeps back the pressing throng with his spear-handle, a splendid type of physical manhood, shaped into grace and vigor by the severe training of the legions; old men who are croning together concerning this wonder-worker come to his fate; other men leaning forward agape with curiosity, some of them doubtless debating within themselves if the prisoner can really be the Messiah; and a mother, with pitying face, who is holding up her child to see the man whose blessing has forever consecrated childhood and whose tender speech had perhaps at some time comforted her own maternal heart. This woman worthily represents the daughters of Jerusalem, who wept as the Redeemer was led on toward the cross. In the outer courts of Pilate's Palace the thronging multitude is dimly seen, presenting an appropriate background and giving a suitable idea of the intense interest felt in Pilate's decision.

The central figure and the most impressive of all is Christ himself, who stands, clad in white, with flowing hair and bound wrists, ready to hear his doom. He is not the conventional Christ as seen in European picture galleries and churches. The old masters gave the halo to the Messiah and feared to paint him as other men, their example in this respect being generally followed by their successors; but here, in Munkacsy's picture, he stands alone in the simple majesty of his own personality, without sign or symbol save his individual greatness. The face is not even of the usual Greek type; it is the Semitic face mingled with the Teutonic, a pale, patient, suffering face, serenely sorrowful for those who are about to perpetrate this matchless wrong and for all sinners for whose iniquities his righteous soul is to be made an offering. A heavenly submission is on his face. Christ accepts the situation, notwithstanding its horrors, and is calm and unswerving as those horrors are closing around him, not to relax their terrible grasp until he has "poured out his soul unto death, bearing the sins of many, and making intercession for the transgressors," even to the extent of pleading for forgiveness for these very murderers. There is a certain measure of exhaustion expressed in the eye, which is somewhat sunken, and in the pallid cheek. The Saviour's humanity is evidently weak from the rough treatment it has experienced during the past dreadful hours. The agony in the Garden which he had endured, followed by the arrest, and the long night of mocking and indignity to which the malice of his enemies had subjected him in the palace of the high priest have told painfully upon his person and aspect, while his soul is wrung with sorrow as he realizes that his disciples have forsaken him and fled. Judas has sold him and Peter denied him with oaths and curses. He is aware, also, that in a few moments Pilate will yield and give sentence that it shall be as the Jews demand, and that a vile murderer will be released instead of himself. He knows, too, that, according to the usage, Pilate will order his poor, weary body to be scourged before he surrenders him for execution, until his lacerated back is unable to bear his cross; that the most dreadful sufferings and death the universe has ever witnessed will follow and his soul go forth from his body while the earth quakes and a supernatural darkness enshrouds the entire land. All this he sees there before him; he knows that within three hours these horrors will be at their full and he will be hanging in more than mortal agony upon the terrible cross; also that ere the sun of that day sets his lifeless and mangled form will be sealed up in a stranger's tomb.

In inspecting Munkacsy's great picture the eye always returns to the face and form of Christ and is held there as by a spell. Never before in any painting of the Messiah has anything of his personality in pose or figure been seen. The face has been that of Jesus, the form that of other men; but here the figure is Christ himself—not the face alone, but the face and form combined—a majestic whole, bearing the unmistakable impress of divinity. The figure is the incarnation of repose. Not a muscle is tense, not a nerve thrills. There is the grace of a king at ease, and yet this repose is the very embodiment of power. The eye that loves force does not rest upon Pilate, but upon Christ, who stands as unmoved in the presence of his judge and the accusing mob as the mountains stand in the enfolding light of a summer's cloudless day. There is a holy charm in this man of divinity all complete which makes even the body and its vestitures instinct with the supremacy of the hidden spirit.

Munkacsy painted the original picture five years ago, and dense crowds, numbering in the aggregate millions of people, have thronged to see it both in Europe and this country. It is beyond all doubt the most wonderful and impressive painting on a sacred subject ever produced in the world, a statement that is sufficiently attested by the fact of its recent sale for over $100,000.

The Messrs. Peterson's masterly engraving of this celebrated picture, "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE," size 22 x 28 inches, though a Five-Dollar print, is sold at the extremely low rate of One Dollar a copy, while impressions on India Proof Paper, size 24 x 33 inches, though a Ten-Dollar picture, are furnished at Two Dollars a copy, figures which place the magnificent reproduction of Munkacsy's masterwork of "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE," within easy reach of all, and thus brings the picture within the reach of thousands and tens of thousands who cannot see or own the original. Copies of either impression will be sold to any one, or sent to any address at once, postpaid, on receipt of price by the publishers, T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa. Every individual and every family in the country should have one of the above copies of Munkacsy's celebrated picture, "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE."

Munkacsy's Great Picture, 'Christ Before Pilate.'

CHRIST BEFORE PILATE.

THE MOST POPULAR PICTURE IN THE WORLD.

Size 22 x 28 Inches, Price $1.00. India Proofs, Size 24 x 33 Inches, Price $2.00.

T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, have just published an exact and perfect copy of Munkacsy's great picture, "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE," which has recently been sold for over One Hundred Thousand Dollars, in a fine steel plate engraving, done in line and stipple, measuring 22 x 28 inches, which, though a Five-Dollar print, they have decided to sell at the extremely low price of One Dollar a copy, so as to bring the picture within the reach of thousands and tens of thousands who cannot see or own the original. The original was painted five years ago by the great Hungarian artist, Munkacsy, and is one of the most remarkable and greatest pictures ever painted. The subject is treated with unflinching realism. The scene is in the "Judgment Hall," and the hour "early in the morning." Pilate is sitting at the right hand on his judgment-seat. Christ is standing before him—a heavenly submission is on his face; while around the Governor's exalted seat the priests are gathered, and the high priest, Caiaphas, is in the act of accusing Christ and demanding His death "for making himself the Son of God." One conspicuous figure among the mob is that of a Jew, with uplifted arms, shouting "Crucify Him," in the dense mob which throngs the palace and presses upon the Roman soldiers, one of whom is holding the crowd back with his spear, while below the place where Pilate sits are the accusing priests and other Judæans. The whole picture touches the popular heart in a way that is simply wonderful. It is the greatest and most impressive religious picture ever painted, and people of all denominations will desire it, at the low price at which it is published. It has already been viewed by over two million persons, and is now visited by thousands daily. Every family in the land should secure a copy of this great picture at once. Size 22 x 28 inches, which, though a Five-Dollar print, is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar a copy, while impressions on India Proof Paper, size 24 x 33 inches, though a Ten-Dollar picture, are sold at the low price of Two Dollars a copy, figures which place this magnificent reproduction of Munkacsy's masterwork of "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE" within easy reach of all.

☞ Copies of either impression of the above picture will be sold to any one, or sent to any one, to any address, at once, postpaid, on receipt of price by the publishers.

TWO VALUABLE PUBLICATIONS

BY THE

Presbyterian Board of Publication.

CERTIFICATES OF MEMBERSHIP, DISMISSION AND RECEPTION.

These Certificates contain an important improvement on the old ones in the provision made for the insertion of the names of baptized children. Thus, when parents are dismissed to another church, the names of their baptized children who are not themselves communicants are included in the Certificate, and the names of such children appear upon the stub with the names of the parent or parents. As the new Book of Discipline (chapter xii. 114) directs that the names of the baptized children shall be thus included, it will be well for the churches at once to procure the new form of Certificate.

To each well-defined period of English history is given a little volume made up of extracts from the chronicles, state papers, memoirs, and letters of the time, as also from other contemporary literature, the whole chronologically arranged and chosen so as to give a living picture of the effect produced upon each generation by the political, religious, social, and intellectual movements in which it took part.

The chief aim of the series is to send the reader to the best original authorities, and so to bring him as close as may be to the mind and feelings of the times he is reading about.

No definite chronological system of issue is adopted, but it is hoped that the entire period of Mediæval and Renaissance history may be covered in the space of two or three years.

"In 1852 Professor (afterwards Sir Edward) Creasy published a book, which is well described by its title: 'The Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World, from Marathon to Waterloo.' Professor Creasy's work has passed through many editions, and has long since become a standard authority among historical students. In the belief that the decisive battles since Waterloo are worthy of record in a similar form, the author has ventured to prepare the volume of which these lines are the preface. . . . The battles here described possess an interest for the student of military tactics and strategy. The book has, however, for its further purpose, the idea of presenting an outline survey of the history of the nineteenth century, considered from the point of view of its chief military events. It is the author's hope that the results of his labors may help to make clear the character and relative importance of these events, and to indicate their influence in shaping the history of our own times."—Extract from Author's Preface.

PERKINS. France under Mazarin. With a sketch of the administration of Richelieu. By JAMES BRECK PERKINS. Third edition. Two volumes, large octavo, with portraits of Mazarin, Richelieu, Louis XIII., and Condé 4 00

"The period covered by the administration of Richelieu and Mazarin is one of both interest and importance. Yet I am not aware that any full history of this time has been written in English. The career and character of Richelieu are, to a certain extent, familiar, but perhaps most have a general idea of his administration rather than a familiarity with what he actually did. Both the character and administration of Mazarin are, I think, little known to most English readers. Yet the eighteen years which embraced the Fronde and the treaties of Westphalia and the Pyrenees cannot be deemed unimportant."—Extract from Author's Preface.

"The author has been happily inspired in his choice of subjects, and he has devoted to its thorough elucidation, not only literary faculties of a praiseworthy kind, but an unusual amount of research among materials unpublished, or at all events unknown to American or English readers."—New York Sun.

Part I.—The Hebrew Story from the Creation to the Exile. 12mo, red edges, pp. 545 . . . . . $1 50

Part II.—Hebrew Poetry and Prophecy. Octavo, cloth extra, 1 50

The poetical selections include not only selections from the distinctively poetical books, such as Psalms, Ruth, Lamentations, Job, and the Wisdom literature, but also such poetical compositions and fragments as are found in the historical and prophetical portions of the Old Testament, like the Song of the Well in Numbers, the Song of the Sea in Exodus, the Song of Deborah, the Blessing of Jacob, etc. In the treatment of these passages and of the Psalms, it has seemed to the editors desirable to follow, as far as may be, a chronological order, pointing out also in the chapter headings the historical occasion of each piece where known.

"I congratulate you on the issue of a work which, I am sure, will find a wide welcome, and the excellent features of which make it of permanent value."

HALE. The Life of George Washington. Studied anew by EDWARD EVERETT HALE, author of "Man without a Country," "Ten Times One is Ten," etc., etc. Large 12mo. Fully illustrated. In The Library of American Biography.

"I have been satisfied for some years that the time had come for a new view of the life and character of George Washington, a view to be taken after a careful study of his own memoranda prepared for the history of his own life. As the reader of this book will learn, Washington left, arranged in careful order, perhaps more materials for his biography than any man of his century; but a certain habit of deifying him has thus far prevented writers of his life from approaching the study of the man in the way in which writers would address themselves to most biographical subjects. . . . It has been my aim, using in my narrative chiefly the diaries and letters of the man himself, to present to the new generation of Americans the human Washington in such a way that they may have some conception of the man and of the advantages and the disadvantages with which he worked through his great career."—Extract from Author's Preface.

The Story of the Nations.

MESSRS. G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS take pleasure in announcing that they have in course of publication a series of historical studies, intended to present in a graphic manner the stories of the different nations that have attained prominence in history.

In the story form the current of each national life will be distinctly indicated, and its picturesque and noteworthy periods and episodes will be presented for the reader in their philosophical relations to each other as well as to universal history.

It is the plan of the writers of the different volumes to enter into the real life of the peoples, and to bring them before the reader as they actually lived, labored, and struggled—as they studied and wrote, and as they amused themselves. In carrying out this plan, the myths, with which the history of all lands begins, will not be overlooked, though these will be carefully distinguished from the actual history, so far as the labors of the accepted historical authorities have resulted in definite conclusions.

It is proposed to have the series present the results of the latest investigations in the progressive department of historical research. Disputed points will, however, not be discussed, but, instead, the writers will present, in a simple, direct, and graphic style, and in a common-sense manner, the story of each land, illuminating it with the side lights that the poets and novelists have cast upon it.

Possessing a knowledge of and sympathy with the youthful way of looking at such subjects, the writers will not offer annals, arid and unconnected, nor bare chronological statements of events, however complete. They will not expect to include all details of minor importance; but, on the contrary, will try to present pictures adapted to leave faithful impressions of the essential facts.

The Editors will endeavor to preserve a unity of design and execution that will enable the series to give to the reader a survey of the rise and progress of the nations sufficient to form a sound basis for subsequent reading and study; but it will not be attempted to cover in detail the entire ground of universal history.

The subjects of the different volumes will be planned to cover connecting and, as far as possible, consecutive epochs or periods, so that the set when completed will present in a comprehensive narrative the chief events in the great STORY OF THE NATIONS; but it will, of course, not always prove practicable to issue the several volumes in their chronological order.

The "Stories" will be printed in good readable type, and in handsome 12mo form. They will be adequately illustrated, and furnished with maps and indexes. They will be sold separately, at $1.50 per volume.

The following is a partial list of the subjects thus far determined upon:

RAND, McNALLY & CO.'S INDEXED POCKET MAPS.

Illustration of the System of Indexing.

The maps of each of the States and Territories in the U. S., and of each of the Canadian Provinces, are accompanied by indexes to railroads, in which each road is numbered, and each of its branches or divisions is distinguished by a letter, while the express company operating over it is also given. Thus:

13—Chicago & North-Western, American Express.

c Tama City, to Elmore, Minn., etc.

Other indexes show the counties, creeks, lakes, rivers, etc., and their positions on the map; and a general index to towns, counties, etc., shows in alphabetical order every town, railroad station, and post-office in the State, with its population, its county, its location on the map, the branch or division of the railroad on which it is situated, whether a county seat, a money order post-office, or telegraph station, and the nearest mailing point. Thus

Webster City, Hamilton, E-5, (Rys 13-c, 27-a) * † ‡.....1900

The name of Webster City being printed in black type, it is a county seat, and the name Hamilton, which follows, designates the county. It is found on the accompanying map, which is a section from the Iowa State map, near the intersection of lines drawn between the two E's on the upper and lower margins of the map, and between the two 5's, at its sides. It is situated on the Tama City & Elmore Branch of the C. & N.-W. R'y, and the Chicago & Sioux City Line of the I. C. R'y. Is a money order P.-O. (*); a telegraph station (†); and is served by the Amer. Exp. Co. (‡). The population, is 1900. Small villages, without post-offices, are indexed thus:

Midway, Boone, E-9, (Ry 13-a) mail Boone,

Meaning that mail for Midway must be sent to the Boone post-office. The reference signs are explained in each map.

Sent by mail, postpaid, bound in flexible cases, upon receipt of the following prices, in Currency or Postage Stamps.

ANNUAL AND SEASONAL CLIMATIC MAPS OF THE UNITED STATES

Graphically Illustrating the whole Climate, from Records of the Signal Service Bureau. By CHARLES DENISON, A.M., M.D.

The ANNUAL MAP graphically illustrates Cloudiness in shades of color, giving percentages; has Isothermal lines for every change of five degrees Fahr., and Precipitation lines for each change of five inches of rainfall. This Map has special arrows for the prevailing, rain-bearing and pleasant weather winds for each section of the country, and tables, across the base of the map, giving the comparative windiness, and fourteen other climatic facts or data, for each of the 136 Signal Stations.

The FOUR SEASONAL CHARTS in one map, graphically illustrate the combined humidity statistics for the seasons, i. e.: relative and absolute humidity and cloudiness: the moist part of the country is shown in four shades of blue, and the dry part in four shades of red, the line between the red and blue being the average of the climate of the United States for the year.

There are also the seasonal Temperature lines, the above kinds of Weather Winds, all the Mineral Springs and Health Stations in the United States, and, in the tables, all the important seasonal averages of statistics.

There are about five million separate Signal Service observations condensed on either the Annual or Seasonal map; nevertheless, separate data can be readily investigated, and the whole easily understood.

RAND, McNALLY & CO.'S
New Series of Educational Maps

ESPECIALLY DESIGNED AND ENGRAVED FOR USE IN SCHOOLS.

Most Complete, Handsome and Substantial School Maps ever Published

These Maps are distinguished by several new and useful features, being beautifully bold in outline, free from unimportant names, and so distinct that no difficulty is experienced in reading any name. They show the latest geographical discoveries and political changes in every part of the world. They are handsomely and artistically colored, so that the political boundaries can be readily distinguished at a distance. The names of towns are engraved in clear, bold type, and are also indicated by large black dots, so that the series can, if preferred, be used for "outline" maps. The lengths of the principal rivers and the altitudes of the highest mountains are engraved on the maps.

The Map of Canada, United States and Mexico shows the new boundary line between Manitoba and Ontario, and gives to Canada and the great Northwest more accurate prominence than has ever been attempted by any other publishers. The regions traversed by the Greeley Expedition, together with the geographical features of the adjacent parts, are exhibited by the map of North America. The one of South America presents the colonial possessions of European countries and the boundaries recently established. The contested territory in Afghanistan, the Congo Free State, with its Lakes, Rivers and Missions, and all the late changes made by settlement and colonization in South Africa are shown on their respective maps. The paths of oceanic currents and the locations of the submarine cables are special features on the maps of the hemispheres. Various colored diagrams showing the area and population of the several great States of the World, their comparative production of cereals, the tonnage of their merchant marines, etc., accompany the maps, making them complete in every respect.

The following are a few of the many Educators who heartily endorse the Series:

Memoir of Edwin Bainbridge.

By his schoolfellow, T. Darlington. The subject of this memoir is the young English tourist who met his death at the dreadful volcanic eruption of Tarawera, New Zealand, on the 10th of June, 1886. Though only twenty years old, his life for several years had been an exemplification of Christian piety, and amid the horrors of that dreadful night his Christian character brought peace to many of his fellow sufferers. His was indeed a life worthy of being placed before the public, and the author has made this sketch from personal reminiscences and from the unfortunate tourist's diary.

Many addresses to children are simply strings of anecdotes with morals. In these talks while anecdotes have not been wholly discarded, the aim has been to get the young interested in the Bible itself, by making its scenes more real, and its truths impressive.

"What is Marantha?"

In this popular little work, first issued in Australia, and now just published in this country, the subject is taken up in the form of a series of conversations between a father and his son and daughter. This method of presentation is particularly interesting.

The Sure Foundation;

Or, Thoughts on the Believer's Safety.

By Ernest Boys, M. A. From the 20th English Edition.

"Even the advanced saint may find much here to ponder; but for weak and halting believers, it is indeed a most valuable little work, which will, we doubt not, be used of God in the upbuilding of many."—Word and Work.

"Clearly and forcibly this little volume puts before us the 'foundation truths' of the Gospel, and exposes inconsistencies and false forms of belief. It is admirably adapted to guide a troubled, self-scrutinizing soul to the rest found in believing Christ's Word."—Christian.

"There is nothing in the career of this remarkable man more striking than the history of these establishments at Northfield."—N. Y. Independent.

Eight illustrations; 288 pages; 12mo., fine cloth, $1.00. Paper cover edition, 50 cents.

Many Infallible Proofs.

By Rev. Arthur T. Pierson, D. D. A series of exceedingly practical chapters on the Evidences of Christianity, or the Written and Living Word of God.

In "A Word Preliminary," the author says: "The writer of these pages once found himself getting into the deep darkness of doubt. Beginning at the foundation, he searched for himself until he found the proofs ample that the Bible is the Word of God. It was like finding one's way out of a dense wood into the full light of day. Others are still in the dark, and these are the blazed trees that mark the path by which one man got out of the forest. Perhaps some one else may try the same route with a like result."

"The style is very lucid, the reasoning coherent, and the teaching very practical. It is not an exercise in mental gymnastics, but an earnest inquiry after the truth."—Daily Telegram, Troy, N. Y.

"The author handles the subject in a plain, straightforward, manly way, which will be effective with plain people who love plain things."—The Independent.

317 pages; 12mo., cloth, $1.25.

Biblical Theology

Of Old Testament, based on Oehler.

By Revere Franklin Weidner. In order to contribute most to a more exact knowledge of the doctrines of the Old Testament, the well-known work of Gustav Friedrich Oehler was taken as the basis. Oehler's work has deservedly been regarded as the most important work on this subject ever published; but it is a work for scholars, and so voluminous that it is used more as a work of reference than as a text-book or book for continuous perusal. The attempt has been made to rewrite and reproduce this valuable work for use in the class-room and for the study-table of pastors, and for that large class of intelligent students of the Bible who are teachers of the Bible classes in our Sunday schools.

12mo.: 240 pages; cloth, $1.25.

Exegetical Theology,

Based on Hagenbach and Krauth. By Revere Franklin Weidner.

The author has here presented in a readable form a brief summary of what is embraced in theological knowledge. The book will be a valuable aid to young students just entering on the study of theology, and has already been adopted as an elementary text-book in some of our colleges. It will also be found useful as a book of reference for the more advanced student and pastor.

12mo.; 184 pages; cloth, $1.25.

Bible Doctrines;

Being Hints, Helps and Illustrations of Scripture Truth, Etc. (Alphabetically Arranged.) By Rev. A. Ritchie, Ph. D.

"The volume is a Doctrinal Dictionary, and contains some two hundred and twenty distinct discussions and statements of questions embracing all the leading doctrines of the Bible. It give the principal passages where each one is alluded to. with historical facts, or extracts from eminent writers, illustrating them. This volume would prove of special value to Sunday-school teachers and laymen."—Christian Instructor.

"It contains a large number of statements of doctrinal questions in simple form and with illustrations. The articles are short, and the book will prove helpful to teachers and young workers."—Westminster Teacher.

Mattie's Secret. By Emile Desbeaux. With 100 illustrations. 4to, handsome lithographed double cover..... ..... 1 25

A bright story of a sister's devotion to a younger brother compelled to leave school by partial blindness. That he may not suffer in after life from this interruption to his studies, the sister (Mattie), by her vivacious descriptions of the many curious things in Natural History and Physical Science, manages to rouse his interest in nature's mysteries, and so, by her clever talks, carries forward his education (though he is unconscious of it) until he has obtained a fund of general information he would scarcely have acquired in the same time at school. Mattie's own love-story forms a pretty background to this picture of self-sacrifice.

Stories of Persons and Places in Europe. By E. L. Benedict. Copiously illustrated. 4to, handsome lithographed cover..... ..... 1 50

An entertaining description of such features of European scenery and places, and of such events in the lives of its noted people and in the history of the leading countries, as would most excite the interest of young readers. The artistic side is cleverly sketched, and the difference in the everyday life abroad and at home is well contrasted.

The following Books were published after the appearance of our last yearly Announcement List:

Les Misérables. By VICTOR HUGO. With about 400 ILLUSTRATIONS by MEISSONIER, DE NEUVILLE, BAYARD, and other eminent French artists. Royal 4to. Boards. 5 volumes. Each..... 4 00

For sale only by McDonnell Bros., Chicago, to whom all orders and enquiries should be addressed.

"A tall wide octavo, with generous margins, with a broad and boldly-printed page, with uncut edges, made of a superfine quality of heavy paper, bound—exquisitely bound—in perfectly plain covers of sage-green linen, labelled on the back only with the simplest of white paper labels, and embellished within by a profusion of woodcuts after drawings by distinguished French artists—the volume is one of singular attractions to the lover of noble books, and will place the writing of Victor Hugo which it is to embody before his English and American admirers in a form which leaves little to be desired."—Literary World.

"No English edition that we have ever seen will compare for a moment with this Routledge edition of this famous classic—a noble octavo, the paper, ink, and binding of which fulfil all the conditions that go to the making of a good book, while the illustrations, of which there are four hundred, large and small, reflect with singular fidelity the spirit of the text they elucidate. They are from designs by the best French artists—such men as De Neuville, Bayard, Morin, and Valnay, whose drawings have been interpreted by artists of equal eminence as in the reproductive process of engraving."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

England, Scotland, and Ireland. By P. VILLARS. Translated from the French by HENRY FRITH. Imperial 4to, gilt edges, with 600 ILLUSTRATIONS drawn expressly for this work by the best artists, from photographs or sketches taken on the spot. 650 pages. Cloth..... $10 00

"A marvel of close knowledge, minute information of a creditably exact kind, and great comprehensiveness. There are cuts on nearly every one of the six hundred and fifty odd pages, and, being generally from photographs, they are usually quite correct. The engravers have done their work with extraordinary delicacy and skill."—Athenæum.

"The letterpress, though written by a Frenchman, seems to be accurate throughout, as regards the remote country as well as London. But the great attraction is the illustrations, numbering no less than six hundred, which are reproduced by photogravure from original drawings by French artists. Apart from the expensive plates issued by printsellers, we have never seen such artistic work from a mechanical process. It may be truly said that they combine the fidelity of a photograph with the charm of American wood-cutting."—Academy.

"M. P. Villars has discharged a great and by no means easy task very well indeed, on the whole, avoiding at once tedious excess in the direction of statistics and the still more tedious jocularity which is the great curse of the modern topographical writer. But of course the 'cuts' will be the chief attraction of the book to most of its readers, and they are excellent of their kind."—Saturday Review.

The History of Manon Lescaut and the Chevalier Des Grieux. By the ABBÉ PRÉVOST. With 225 original illustrations and borders by Maurice Leloir, and 12 page-etchings reproduced by the Goupil process. (Uniform with the Leloir Edition of the "Sentimental Journey.") In a cloth double portfolio..... 20 00

"The body of the Venus of Milo, the head of the Joconda, the face of MANON LESCAUT, haunt and move our souls; live even in the hearts of men, and trouble all artists, all poets, all those who pursue a veiled and intangible form. More truly feminine than DIDO, or the chaste JULIET, or even the divinely pure VIRGINIA, is MANON LESCAUT."—From the Preface.

The London Athenæum says: "The translation is very clear and animated; the borders and vignettes are of the most delicate and finished character, beautifully designed, and engraved in the most perfect manner; the effective etchings are highly prized in France. The book is a triumph of typography and decoration, and the binding is an example of good taste."

The Frenchwoman of the Century. By OCTAVE UZANNE, author of the "Fan," the "Glove," the "Umbrella" and the "Muff." MOST EXQUISITELY ILLUSTRATED IN COLORS from designs by ALBERT LYNCH. Engraved in colors by Eugène Gaujean. Printed on hand-made paper. 8vo, cloth extra, gilt top, in a box..... $15 00

"The illustrations are dainty in the extreme."—London Standard.

"The letterpress comprises much amusing 'chit-chat,' and is more solid than it pretends to be This brochure is worth reading; nay, it is worth keeping."—Athenæum.

"The work is delightfully illustrated in a novel manner, . . . the pictures which meander about the work being printed in varied colors."—London Art Journal.

"The most striking merit is the entire appropriateness, both of the letterpress and illustrations, to the subject treated . . . the drawings seem to conduct us into an enchanted world."—Westminster Review.

"M. Octave Uzanne has had a difficult task to grapple with, and has acquitted himself with remarkable grace."—N. Y. Times.

The Vicar of Wakefield. By OLIVER GOLDSMITH. With a prefatory memoir by GEORGE SAINTSBURY, and 114 COLORED ILLUSTRATIONS by V. A. PORSON (illustrator of "Gulliver's Travels"). Royal 8vo, cloth extra. Printed in colors and gilt top, 5 00

"The distinction of the book is its illustrations, of which there are one hundred and fourteen. . . . They interest and please by their minuteness and fineness, by their brightness and warmth, by their quietness, by their pertinency to the text, by their apt reproduction of the salient points in the story, by their harmony with history, by their artistic truth and mechanical merit."—Literary World.

"The most beautiful edition of 'The Vicar of Wakefield' hitherto published."—Journal of Commerce.
